Greetings and Happy New Year!

God is good and continues to be faithful in the ministry He has called us too. Since our last letter we have celebrated our Holidays with all glorification to the Lord Jesus Christ. We were able to put food boxes together for our Christmas service. Every family that came received a box of goodies. Thank you for your contributions to make this past Christmas a joy to the families that comes to NNLC.

I was able to go out to our Alcohol/Drug treatment center in Cortez, CO in November 2011, also this past January. Currently, there are eight men in the program this ninety days. Please pray for their time there and the plans for them after they completed the program.

These past months have been difficult for some of our native families back on the reservation losing love ones. I have been invited to officiate and speak/sing at these memorial services. Thank you for your prayers as we continue to serve the families into this New Year. One of the battles we fight is alcoholism. Majority of the deaths are alcohol related. Please keep in your prayer as we make a stand against this issue. The good news of Christ is our only hope!

Our church's New Years Revival is planned for the February 20th-25th. Pray with us as God speaks to those that come and accept the gospel. In the past we have invited the Native churches in city and had the pastor speak and have the church share their testimonies. Its always a blessing to get to know other natives christians in Albuquerque and surrounding areas.

Ben Yazzie of iEquip will be running classes again for us this year. Our first class will be February 18th, the topic will be a survey of Bible doctrines. Pray for the students as they grow in the word. I continue to take classes with Trinity Southwest University, I got two block courses this month.

Thank you again for your continue support to our Native ministry. God is awesome and knows the needs for our mission. Please feel free to call anytime. Phone #505-220-1188, email: abetoney@juno.com
